Case No. 3:25-cv-08043-MTL

II. Relevance to Current Proceedings

The pattern of conduct that led to the Bar's corrective action mirrors concerns previously raised in Plaintiff's filings before this Court, including allegations of bad faith procedural tactics, improper use of communications to disparage opposing parties, and efforts to divert the litigation away from resolution on the merits.

Plaintiff submits this Notice not to prejudice Defendant's representation but to ensure the Court is aware of recent, official developments corroborating Plaintiff's prior concerns and to preserve a complete and transparent record of the conduct surrounding this litigation.

III. Conclusion

Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court take judicial notice of the information provided herein and attached as Exhibit A, and consider the broader context of opposing counsel's conduct in any further proceedings.

DATED this 29th day of April 2025.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: File No: 25-1043
Respondent: Robert D. Haws

Dear Mr. Doria:

I reviewed your April 15, 2025, written charge submission regarding Mr. Haws and completed my inquiry, including discussing this matter several fellow bar counsels. Because of the issues asserted in your bar charge and/or other issues discovered in the disciplinary inquiry, Mr. Haws has agreed to participate in a State Bar diversion program. The terms of the diversion program are designed to address the types of problems that led to your charge.

If Mr. Haws fails to comply with these terms, a new disciplinary inquiry and investigation could be initiated. Successful completion of diversion results in the underlying matter being dismissed.

Although you have been notified of this decision, diversions are confidential pursuant to Rule 70(b)(4), Ariz. R. Sup. Ct. The decision to offer diversion is final and not subject to review.

Thank you for your continued interest in promoting the professional responsibility of the State Bar of Arizona.

Sincerely,

/s/ Matthew E. McGregor
